Norwegian researchers are raising new warnings about the anti-depressant drug, paxil, saying it is associated with a higher risk of suicide in adults.